

PEACE RUMORS

A black and white illustration of a person in a small boat on a body of water, looking out at a large, dark, rocky island or cliff face. The person is wearing a hat and a dark jacket, and is looking out towards the right. The boat is small and simple, with a single mast. The water is depicted with wavy lines, and the island or cliff face is a large, dark, craggy mass on the right side of the frame. The overall style is that of a sketch or a simple line drawing.

ATTRACTIVE BILLS AT THE SCREEN THEATRES

Knickerbocker, Strand and Academy Offer New Reels
With Old Favorites.

Helen Ware was seen in Triangle films at the Knickerbocker Theatre yesterday. A Griffith production called "Cross Currents" gives this emotional actress a chance to show herself at her best. The play itself gives the Griffith forces many opportunities for elaborate scenic effects, one feature of which is the wrecking of a yacht and its passengers cast on a deserted island.

Dividing the honors of the programme with Miss Ware was William S. Hart.

from the Ince studios. It is a story of a young Westerner who comes to New York and goes back with the daughter of a rich man as his wife. Fred Mace supplied the comedy of the entertainment. "Brooklyn Nights" was a sentimental farce. "Margarita" Clark is appearing this week at the Strand Theatre in "The Prince and the Pauper," modelled after the book of the same name. It is the usual musical programme and a topical review.

"Theda Bara is appearing in "The Galley Slave" at the Academy of Music headed by Bartley Campbell's melodrama. The same picture is also being exhibited this week at the Riverside Theatre.

All of the war pictures are still on view at the Park. "The Battle of Nations" shows as an incidental attraction Ambassador Gerard at Antwerp.

Marguerite Clark is appearing this week at the Strand Theatre in "The Prince and the Pauper," which was after Prince and the Pauper by Mark Twain. There is also the usual musical programme and a topical review.

"The Gods Must Be Crazy" is appearing in "The Gallop Slave" at the Academy of Music, made from Bartley Campbell's melodrama. The same picture will appear again this week at the Riverside Theatre.

All of the war pictures are still on view. At the Park Theatre, "Incidental attraction Ambassador Gerard at work in Berlin." "Fighting in France" continues at the Fulton, and "Fighting in France" at the Cohan Theatre. At the Vitagraph Theatre "The Battle Cry of Peace" is on the last lap of its run there, concluding the engagement next Sunday.

Dwight Elmendorf exhibited a series of colored pictures of Italy in Carnegie Hall last evening. He supplied the lecture with a lecture describing the beauty of the Italian country and took his hearers to many historic places in and about Rome.

The "Land of the Lakes" at the Strand Theatre was the subject of the travelogue given last night by Burton Holmes at the Candler Theatre. Colored photo scenes were shown in connection with his convention.

The suffragists have had John S. Hartington, research historian, looking up precedents upon which they base the claims of a right to be heard before the national lawmakers. Mr. Hartington found that the first appearance of an outsider in Congress was made in 1793 during the election contest between Jackson and Wayne, and that the first regular appearance of a non-member was that of Parnell, the Irish leader, who spoke on January 19, 1880.

Even though heard by Congress at least once, the King of the Hawaiian Islands was heard upon a visit he made to the country in 1874. Louis Roussell appeared before the House of Representatives in Poland, and various other men of the nation and other countries were heard in the past.

Elizabeth Cady Stanton, following the specific request to be heard on the suffrage question, but permission was refused.

Dr. Anna Shaw Thinks There Hope
Been Turn to Cause.

The annual convention of the National Woman Suffrage Association in Washington December 14 to 19 will be a house cleaning party, when the brooms of the leaders will sweep away all the old ideas. In the words of Dr. Anna Shaw: "It will be a convention of note books and sharpened pencils." No plan will be devised to meet changing conditions.

BOY SCOUTS SEEK $200,000.

Every Cent Contributed Will Go Directly Into Fund.

Every cent subscribed to the $200,000 fund which the Boy Scouts of America will start raising next week for a 25-3000 increase in membership will go directly into the fund, it was announced yesterday. Enough has already been contributed to pay the expenses of the canvassing campaign.

Plans for the campaign are well under way and conferences of business men interested are scheduled for this week. A luncheon of the fund will be held today at a luncheon at the Machinery Club, 50 Church street, and to-morrow night at the club.

During the week 400 men interested will meet every day at luncheon.

The financial committee will open headquarters at 57 and 59 Chambers street. Alexander J. Hempill, chairman of the board of directors of the Guaranty Trust Company, will act as treasurer and will direct fifty teams of seven or eight men each.

The convention of the association will begin tomorrow. "We believe that we can win up our agitation in a few years," said Mr. Shaw. "There has been an extraordinary change in public opinion on the question recently and it is gratifying for president of the association. The annual election will take less time and the campaign will be more successful. That will leave us plenty of time to devote to the pressing problems of our movement."

NO STADIUM FOR COLUMBIA

$100,000 Gift Instead Will Help Swell Hospital Fund.

Columbia University's football team will not be moved toward the stadium which was offered to it at the beginning of the season, it was learned yesterday, but the money will be devoted to the building of a new wing for the medical school and hospital which is being planned by the university and the Presbyterian Hospital.

The plan for the plans for the gift was made after President Butler's announcement on November 20 that the university would accept the offer.

CONCERTS OF A SUNDAY.

CONCERTS OF A SUNDAY.

Hippodrome, Cort and the Winter Garden Entertain Crowds.

Alles Nielsen was the soloist at the Sousa Band concert at the New York Hippodrome last night, the sang "Verdiana" by Carlotta Monti, "Duet (Gloaming); the "Beh viedu non tradier," from "Nozze di Figaro," and a group of modern English songs. Mr Sousa led his band in Grieg's "Peer Gynt" suite and "The Swan" by Debussy.

A large audience heard the concert.

The Winter Garden held its usual concert last night with the customary varied programme of excerpts from the operas of Giuseppe Verdi, and his orchestra gave a programme of Herbert music exclusively at the Cort Theatre and the Theatre Francaise entertained the audience with a programme of the old American League ball park, intended as the site of the new addition. Alumni of the universities rallied at the annual concert, which was expected that in a few days President Butler will be able to announce that an entire $1,000,000 has been raised.

The football enthusiasts were quick to recognize the importance of the work needed more urgently than a stadium and transferred their gift to this cause.

Plays and Players.

Taylor Holmes in "The Mystery Hunt Bean" will not come to New York next season.

Edith Johnson will revive his father's famous play, "Lord Dundreary" at the Booth Theatre to-night. It was last seen in 1905 and 1906.

The Hawaiian orchestra, which has been playing at the San Francisco exposition, will appear at the Cort Theatre and has introduced into his "Midnight Frolics" a new number, "The Hawaiian Dance."
